

What is a flush pull?

A flush pull is a recessed handle that sits flush with the door or drawer surface--ideal for minimal, modern spaces or areas with tight clearance like sliding doors or narrow walkways. They're commonly used on pocket doors, closet doors, and cabinetry for a streamlined look. Want more ideas for elevating modern spaces?

What finishes do flush pulls come in?

Flush pulls are available in finishes like matte black, brushed nickel, bronze, and polished chrome. Match your pull to surrounding elements like door levers, cabinet hardware, or lighting. For a cohesive look, repeat the same finish in at least two other elements in the space.

What are the different types of flush pulls?

Circular flush pulls are often used for sliding or pocket doors and add a soft, modern detail. Rectangular flush pulls suit both contemporary and transitional styles and offer a wider grip area. Edge pulls mount to the top or side of a door or drawer, creating a sleek look without cutting into the face of the material.

What is the difference between a flush pull and an edge pull?

Rectangular flush pulls suit both contemporary and transitional styles and offer a wider grip area. Edge pulls mount to the top or side of a door or drawer, creating a sleek look without cutting into the face of the material. How do I install a flush pull? Flush pulls typically require a routed or mortised opening in the door or drawer surface.
