

What is a battery housing?

The battery housing is the central safety component that must meet the highest standards in terms of sealing, electrical conductivity, mechanical strength, and much more. It essentially consists of a battery lid / cap and a battery can - including the critical interface between these two components.

What are the requirements for battery cell housings?

Battery cell housings must meet a wide range of demanding requirements - including the highest standards for sealing, electrical conductivity, mechanical stability, and safety. At the same time, they must be produced flexibly and in large quantities to meet the increasing market demands.

What is a battery enclosure?

A battery enclosure is a housing, cabinet, or box. It is specifically designed to store or isolate the battery and all its accessories from the external environment. The enclosures come in different designs and configurations. Enclosure for Battery Battery box plays an integral role in both domestic and industrial applications.

Why should you choose a battery cell housing made of aluminium?

Thanks to efficient heat dissipation via the aluminium housing, the batteries remain cool and safe even during fast charging. A more homogeneous temperature distribution within the battery cell housing also lays the foundation for a long service life. Ultimately, a battery cell housing made of aluminium ranks at the highest level of sustainability.
