Does China have a solar energy industry?

China unleashed the full might of its solar energy industry last year. It installed more solar panels than the United States has in its history. It cut the wholesale price of panels it sells by nearly half. And its exports of fully assembled solar panels climbed 38 percent while its exports of key components almost doubled.

Will solar power re-energize China's economy?

China hopes to harness emerging industries like solar power, which Mr. Xi likes to describe as "new productive forces," to re-energize an economy that has slowed for more than a decade. The emphasis on solar power is the latest installment in a two-decade program to make China less dependent on energy imports.

Are China's top leaders subsidized by battery electric cars?

China's top leaders have heavily subsidized the research and production of battery electric cars for the past 15 years. Companies are ramping up their manufacturing of battery electric cars and building a fleet of ships to export them to distant markets, particularly in Europe.

Are China's solar panels resilient?

But China's solar panel manufacturers are resilient. Some of the largest have restarted operations, often with the help of banks and local governments, after collapsing a decade ago. Zhao Feng, the founder of Sunzone in Changsha, said he hoped that his company might also recover.
