How do you maintain outdoor metal furniture?

Restoring outdoor metal furniture is an investment of time and effort, so proper maintenance is key to preserving the results. Regularly clean the furniture to remove dirt and debris, and inspect it for signs of rust or wear. Apply a fresh coat of paint or topcoat as needed to address minor damage.

How do you protect metal furniture from rust?

A rust-resistant primer is essential for protecting metal furniture from future rust and ensuring paint adhesion. Choose a primer designed specifically for metal surfaces, preferably one with rust-inhibiting properties. Apply the primer evenly using a brush, roller, or spray can.

How do you restore metal?

Lemon juice is another weak acid you may already have at home. To use it to restore metal, first, coat the item in salt. Then carefully squeeze lemon or lime juice over the salted item, making sure not to rinse away the salt. Let the whole thing sit for a couple of hours, then brush with a wire brush or steel wool.
